AN OPEN LETTER FROM THE BLAIRMORE RED CROSS BRANCH

March is Red Cross month. Radio and newspapers are telling us every day of the increasing need for help. The Blairmore Branch is not canvassing at present. They have a large subscription list, and through those regular donations strive to meet the yearly quota to provincial headquarters. To those faithful supporters heartiest thanks are extended. To those who are not on the lists this appeal is made through The Enterprise columns. The need is greater than ever before in all history of war and suffering. This year's slogan is: "Give to the Red Cross as you have never given before. Give double if you can." Please send along your donation.

Remember, millions are needed for prisoner-of-war parcels. These are going forward and are surely received, as thousands of postcards have come from the recipients. Your dollar may save the life of someone very near to you. Red Cross work goes far beyond the sick and wounded. Give today!

The special sessions of the Grand Lodge of Alberta, I.O.O.F., and the Rebekah Assembly are being held in Calgary this week. James Cousens of Bellevue, is presiding as grand master.

Dr. George Maynes, of Bashaw, Alberta, has been chosen to fill the vacancy at Coleman. An additional nurse was also recently engaged, in the person of Miss Mary Snider, for the surgery and outside cases. Miss Snider is a Coleman girl, taking her training at the Royal Alexandra hospital in Edmonton.

The Calgary Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting centre announces that orders have been received from Air Force headquarters lowering the enlistment age for men in both aircrew and ground crew trades to 17½ years of age. Formerly aircrew only were accepted under 18. Candidates under 18, however, will have to have written permission of their parents or guardian before enlistment. The lowered age limit will permit many young lads, particularly in the Air Cadet squadrons, to enlist on completion of the school term, who have been found unsuitable for aircrew, but are eligible for training in a ground crew trade.

All Over The World

MOBILE RECRUITING

UNIT TO VISIT PASS

Calgary R.C.A.F. recruiting officials announce that dates have been set for the next visit of a mobile recruiting unit to the Kootenay and Crow's Nest Pass districts. Operations will commence in Nelson, B.C., on March 15th, for two days, with morning, afternoon and evening sittings planned. This will be followed by a three-day stay in Trail, where a record number of applicants applied on the last visit, and from the number of inquiries received since that time, indications point to another busy session for the Air Force officers. In the following week, Creston will be visited on the evening of March 22nd, then on March 24th and 25th at Kimberley, Blairmore will conclude the tour on March 26th, with recruiting at the Canadian Legion club rooms and the Csmopolitan hotel.

Men for aircrew duties are sought who will report for duty in late March or April. A limited number of unskilled ground crew applications will receive immediate enlistment, while applications are still urgently needed in many skilled trades, particularly in the works and buildings branch. Construction workers, carpenters, plumbers, tractor men with diesel experience, stationary engineers, painters, pumpmen are among those required. In the unskilled field for men in good condition physically, and 30 to 40 years of age, there are openings as service police. There are also a number of bookkeepers and accountants needed for clerk accountants. If the latter have experience in the building or hardware field of accounting, so much the better. Male cooks are also wanted.

Women are required for a long list of trades, most of which call for no previous experience or training. The last visit of the Calgary women's division officer to the district resulted in a record number of applicants and enlistments. It is anticipated that the interest in R.C.A.F. service will be even more so on this occasion. The party will be well supplied with quotas in almost all the popular trades. Medical examinations of women will again be given suitable applicants under the supervision of the women's division officer accompanying the unit, and actual enlistment will be effected of those who qualify with reporting dates in April, and in some cases March.

Among the latest enlistments in the Army and Air Force from this district were: Army—J. A. R. Thibault, Calgary; E. Dooks, Coleman; R. Carlson, Hillcrest; and A. Pessina, Blairmore; and in the Air Force—James Alexander Maurer, Coleman; John Roger Herbert Thompson, Blairmore; Kenneth Samuel Thornton, Hillcrest; and John Lawrence Barlas, Bellevue.

GILLIS-DOHERTY NUPTIALS

St. Anne's Catholic church in Blairmore was the scene of a pretty wedding on the forenoon of Monday of last week, the contracting parties being Miss Pearl Violet Doherty, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Doherty, of Westmount, Montreal, and Corporal Donald Edward Raoul Gillis, of the R.C.A.F., son of Mrs. Gillis and the late Mr. J. E. Gillis, of Blairmore.

The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. Raoul Green, who gave her in marriage. For the occasion she chose an ensemble of Alice blue with small hat of matching blue violets and shoulder veil of tulle, and carried a bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Frances Tompkins, was charmingly gowned in a dress of air force blue with navy velvet trimmings and off-the-face hat of matching color, and carried a bouquet of tallman roses. The groom was supported by Mr. John Dobek as best man. Mrs. Gillis, mother of the groom, wore a gown of periwinkle blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of tallman roses.

During the nuptial mass celebration by the Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington, Mrs. L. L. Morgan rendered Mil-lar's "Ave Maria," with Miss Eleanor Aschacher at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Green, after which the party repaired to the Greenhill Grill for the wedding breakfast, when some fifty invited guests sat to a b'nd table centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. The toast to the bride and groom was proposed by Mr. John Dobek and responded to by the groom.

Corp. and Mrs. Gillis took the midnight train for the Pacific coast, there to spend their honeymoon. For going away, the bride wore a beige treg suit with black top coat and matching accessories.

The Town of Pincher Creek has donated $50 to the Canadian Red Cross fund. They also subscribed $50 to the Fish and Game Association.

Jack Eddy has purchased a property about forty miles out from Vancouver and hopes to live there some day if the government can change the climate slightly.

It cost 75 cents to kill a man in Caesar's time. The price rose to about $3,000 during the Napoleonic wars; to $5,000 in the American Civil War and then to $21,000 per man in the World War. Estimates for the present war indicate that it may cost the warring countries not less than $50,000 for each man killed.—Readers' Digest.

COAL PROCESSING NEEDED IN ALBERTA

Canada is capable of supporting 100,000,000 people if we are willing to accept the European standard of living, and 50,000,000 on our present standard—five times our present population. If and when Canada gets 100,000,000 people, or even 50,000,000, it is believed that South Alberta's great coal resources will dictate that this part of Canada will maintain the densest population, and that the balance of population will shift from the East to the West.

We have this on the word of Prof. Griffith Taylor, B.E., B.A., D.Sc., Canada's leading geographer, an expert in "geopolitics," which is a study of world population in relation to raw materials and political relations.

But this density of population will not come in our time. It lies in the future—how long, Mr. Taylor doesn't say. He bases his conclusions on four limiting factors: temperature, rainfall, elevation and coal.

Possibly all the mineral products in Canada, the last to be discussed will, in the long run, be the most important. This is the vast coalfield of Southern Alberta. The coal is of Cretaceous age, and is not regarded equal in quality to the Carboniferous coals of Nova Scotia and the United States. However, it is more valuable than the brown coal which the Germans are using to a tremendous extent in modern history. Around Lethbridge and Drumheller it has been estimated that there are about 600,000 million tons in reserve. This is considerably more than the combined supplies of Germany and Poland which have led to the growth of huge industrial populations in these countries.

Dominion and provincial governments should enter into intensive research into the development of coal by the low carbonization process which has enabled Germany, a country without oil, to carry on the greatest mechanized war in the world's history. Both Britain and Germany process practically all their coal. So far Alberta has done nothing at all about this processing programme which finds in coal properties ranging all the way from gasoline and diesel oil fuel to the dyes and drugs which enter into almost every phase of modern history.—The Drumheller Mail.

Nutrition And National Health

IN RECENT WEEKS the subject of nutrition in relation to national health has again been brought before the Canadian public. Since the beginning of the war some surprising facts regarding the health of our people have been revealed. Canada, with its great agricultural development, has always been regarded as "a land of plenty," yet now we know that over half the recruits of the average age of twenty-two and a half years did not qualify for the Grade A physical standards of our armed forces. Mrs. Phyllis Turner, oils and fats administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, has raised the question that if this condition exists among young men just past their majority, what would be the figures in other age groups? The problem of raising the standard of physical fitness in this country offers a real challenge to us in these times, when we are striving in every way possible to put forth a maximum effort to win the war.

New System Is Needed

A recent survey among the civilian population showed that the average family here was receiving less than seventy per cent. of the foods called for by the Canadian Dietary Standard. In a great many cases, this was not due to poverty, but to ignorance, and public education on the subject of nutrition is now being emphasized in order to overcome this ignorance. There are, however, many instances in which the family income is not sufficient to provide an adequate diet. Mrs. Turner, who takes a keen interest in improving Canadian standards of nutrition, has pointed out that people who are inadequately fed are not physically fit, and that they become, in time, a liability to the nation. If this condition is to be corrected, it appears that some new system for the production and distribution of food will have to be devised. This, Mrs. Turner suggests, should be based on the nutritional needs of the people.

Surplus Of Food Not Great

Food production and distribution are linked with agriculture, an industry in which a large proportion of our population is interested. In spite of the fact that our output of food stuffs is very great, we are told that there is not a sufficient supply of all foods to provide an adequate diet for our population. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, has stated in this connection that it will be necessary to increase the production of many kinds of food to ensure even "the minimum quantities required for an adequate health diet for all." This raises the question of making increased production economically worth while to the farmer. These means must be found, Mr. Mackenzie believes, and the farmer must be assured reasonable returns on his crops. The whole problem is clearly one of great importance, and the intelligent co-operation of the public is necessary in the effort to raise the standard of our national health as rapidly as possible.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

Variety, we are told, is the spice of life. It also can add greatly to the enjoyment of the worker's mid-day meal. Imagination is a prerequisite for the lunch box planner, for nothing can perk up a jaded appetite like new ideas and innovations introduced into the daily lunch. For example, sandwiches are not, as some people think, a vital necessity in the lunch box. Indeed, they can be eliminated entirely from time to time and other items of food substituted with gratifying effect. Following are some lunch box menus which do not include sandwiches; yet are very appetizing, just the same:

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--|
| Cream of Pea Soup | Fish and Celery Salad |
| Whole Wheat Bread and Butter | (Pilchard can take place of salmon and are economical) |
| Cabbage and Carrot Salad | Whole Wheat Bread and Butter |
| Canned Plums | Coffee or Cocoa |
| Milk | Cake |
| | Canned fruit or left-over pudding |
| Cream Soup | Macaroni with Cheese |
| Devilled Egg and Lettuce Salad | Fruit Cup |
| With Carrot Strips | Bread and Butter |
| Whole Wheat Bread and Butter | Milk |
| Apple | |
| Cream of Tomato Soup | Potato and Onion Soup |
| Beet and Celery Salad | Cabbage and Raw Apple Salad |
| Carrot Strips | Bread and Butter |
| Whole Wheat Muffins and Butter | Cocoa |
| Tea and Milk | |

In order to make sure that liquids and salads are packed securely, it will be necessary to have always on hand the proper equipment. This consists of:

1. Standard Lunch Box.
2. Thermos bottle—for soups and beverages.
3. Glass jar with screw top—for puddings and fruit. Clean jam or mayonnaise jars are ideal for this purpose.
4. Paper cups—for salads.
5. Wax paper—for salads and sandwiches.
6. Spoon and/or fork.

So use your imagination, Mrs. Housewife, and make it a pleasure for the man of the family to open his lunch box when the noonday whistle blows.

SWINE DISEASES

Erysipelas May Attack Hogs Of All Ages—More Prevalent Among Young Pigs

This is the fourth of a series of six articles by J. L. Miller, V.S., dealing with the more prevalent swine diseases. The remaining articles will appear weekly in the following order: Worms; Anemia; Lice and Gout; Venereal diseases; Hemorrhagic Septicemia and Baby Pig Diseases; Mange and Diarrhoea; Zoonotic.

Swine Erysipelas has for many years been one of the most important diseases affecting swine in the continental Europe and the British Isles. It made its appearance on this continent about 1921 and since that time has become very prevalent in this province. Swine of all ages are susceptible, but as a rule, outbreaks of Swine Erysipelas are confined to pigs under six months of age. It is more common during the spring, summer and fall, but may occur at any season of the year.

The causative agent of the erysipelas is an organism known as the erysiplothrux rhusiopathiae. It is very resistant to adverse conditions and has been known to live in soil or purifying material for many months. This is important in dealing with outbreaks of this disease, as the organism can live in the soil the infection tends to recur in succeeding litters pigs. It is also the cause of this germ may be harboured in the bodies of apparently healthy swine. These animals act as carriers and may transmit the infection when placed in contact with healthy pigs. The disease is thought to be spread by healthy hogs consuming food or water which has become contaminated by discharges from diseased animals.

Symptoms: Symptoms displayed by pigs affected with this disease are various and are usually described as acute, chronic and skin types. In the acute type the onset is sudden and animals may be found dead within a few previous symptoms being noted. In the common type several pigs may be affected with a fever, which ranges from 105 to 106 degrees. They may eat and are active when disturbed. Later they become depressed, jerky breathing, vomiting with constipation are usually observed. Tenderness and swelling of the legs and the animals appear stiff when forced to exercise.

Skin Type: From twenty-four to forty-eight hours after the onset of the disease irregular red patches, which are neither swollen nor tender may be seen on the lower parts of the skin. These patches are roughly diamond shaped and are called diamond skin disease. They are quite typical of this disease. Pigs suffering from the acute type may die in a few days, others may completely recover, while others show a gradual improvement and lapse into the chronic form. Chronic Erysipelas is characterized by joints become enlarged and painful. Marked stiffness is noted, and if the animal is forced to exercise may show evidence of great pain. Loss of weight and general unthriftiness are usually observed. In another form of the chronic type litters will do well until they are two to three months old, when in spite of good care they become unthrifty, the skin loses its bright clear appearance, becoming dry and scaly, and the hair appears long and shaggy. Pigs suffering from this type fail to develop and frequently weigh only thirty-five to forty pounds when six months old. Animals suffering from the chronic type of Swine Erysipelas often live for months and then die; some, however, slowly recover but usually remain unthrifty, poor hogs.

Post Mortem: Post mortem held on pigs dying from this disease reveal no definite lesions. The spleen is usually enlarged and the pulp of this organ is very dark in colour. The surface of the spleen may be studded with small elevations from the size of a pea to a large bean. Small hemorrhages may be found on the lining of the heart, and in the chronic form cauliflower-like growths may be found on the heart valves.

Diagnosis: The diagnosis of Swine Erysipelas should always be confirmed by sending a sick pig to a laboratory for examination.

Treatment: All affected animals should be isolated from healthy hogs in the herd. Place sick pigs in comfortable quarters and provide soft feed. Anti Swine Erysipelas Serum has proved valuable in the treatment of this disease in the early stages. It should be given in doses of not less than 20 c.c. per hundred lbs. of pig. Injected deeply under the skin. This dose should be repeated every twelve to twenty-four hours until improvement is noted. This serum can also be used to protect healthy swine which have been exposed to an outbreak of this disease. In this case 10 to 20 c.c. dose should be used.

Prevention: On premises where Swine Erysipelas has been known to exist it is wise to protect young pigs by the following method. Inject each when one week of age with 10 c.c. of Anti Swine Erysipelas Serum, i.e., on each side behind the elbow. This dose should be repeated in thirty days. This method is effective during the life of the average pig.

On premises where the disease has been known to exist, healthy swine should be kept away from contaminated houses, pens and pastures. Swine known to have been infected should not be kept for breeding purposes. Contaminated houses, pens, etc. should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Naval Veterans

Convoy Commanders Have The Spirit Of Drake And Nelson

Admiral Sir Studdheim Brownrigg, a naval veteran of the last war, has been reported missing somewhere on active service at sea. Awarded the D.S.O. in the battle of Jutland, Admiral Brownrigg had well earned retirement before the outbreak of this war. He enlisted again, however, to serve as convoy commander—one of the unknown warriors in the most protracted battle.

The convoy commander's task is to cross on one of the cargo ships in the front line as they move slowly together on voyages through submarine-infested seas. The masters of the ships in convoy are responsible to the commander. He has to keep the ships together, to make decisions when one or another of the ships is in difficulties, when they are attacked or when they are laboring under the stress of gale weather. Slowly they plod along—sometimes more than 14 days' out of sight of land in an Atlantic crossing.

Naval veterans, admirals and captains, returned to serve with the seafaring men in the merchant marine, truly as unknown warriors, through the long months into years of monotonous crossing and recrossing of bleak and turbulent ocean expanses. They are under no illusions about the probabilities of eventually being torpedoed. One after another they have gone down: grand men, with none of the thrill of action stations, but truly with the spirit of Drake and Nelson. They should ever be remembered as unknown warriors of the sea.—Ottawa Citizen.

Bacteriologists Are Studying New Process For Packing Dried Foods

Dehydrated vegetables are being compressed into "bricks" and wrapped with various packing materials, especially tin, in the search for a process for packing dried foods in a new way in the bacteriology laboratories at the State Experiment Station of Geneva, N.Y. After wrapping and sealing, the "bricks" are thrown into tanks of water or stored in a room kept at 100 degrees Fahrenheit and 55 per cent. humidity to simulate tropical conditions, and the contents of the packages sampled from time to time to determine the efficiency of the packaging operations.

Dried vegetables, including carrots, beets, cabbage, sauerkraut and other products, are subjected to tremendous pressure to reduce the materials to small "bricks" practically free from air. Then, by covering these "bricks" with various moisture proof materials the contents of the package are protected against deterioration in color, flavor and nutritive value.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

POPULAR MEN AND GIRLS CHARM BY THEIR MANNERS

The Correct Things at Movies
No wonder they like to go out together! Charming and well-mannered, each is sure that the other will do nothing awkward or embarrassing. When it's time to leave she suggests "Shall we go?" (for that's up to the girl) and he steps into the aisle first, letting her precede him to the theatre lobby.

Taking a bus or a taxi, he precedes her too in alighting, so that he may assist her—and she lets him give her address to the taxi driver for she knows the man plays host on a date.

That's why she's so popular—she's so utterly smooth. When given opportunity she doesn't utter schoolgirl flimsiness. "Oh, go on!" She says simply "Thank you" for peroxide. "I'm glad you think so!"

At a dance she smiles graciously when a man cuts in, even though he's not her man of the moment. And after a dance she lets a man do the applauding, though she'll tell him that she enjoyed it, too.

You can learn these charming, correct manners. Our 32-page booklet has easy-to-remember rules for men and girls on dancing, dinner, theatre, party and party dates.

Study Is Given To The Problem Of Air Traffic

Ottawa.—The Canadian government has given a considerable study to the problem of the control of international air traffic in the future, it was learned from an authoritative source.

In any discussions looking to an international agreement on civil aviation, Canada—because of its strategic location astride potential air routes between the eastern and western hemispheres and its extensive development of both civil and military aviation within its own borders—will be keenly interested.

With a view to the future, the government has seen to it that Canadian rights have been protected in all agreements with the United States concerning the construction of landing fields and airfields on Canadian territory for war purposes.

In some quarters it is urged that an international agreement be reached before the end of the war in order to avoid complications after the war. It is felt that the negotiation of a reasonable arrangement might be easier now than it would be after hostilities cease and commercial rivalries between the nations become more intense.

So far as can be learned the Canadian government has taken no official position on that question although some of its officials are known to be in favor of early negotiations.

Eight Sentenced To Death In India

For Murder Of Canadians
London.—A Reuters despatch from Patna, India, said eight persons had been sentenced to death there for the murder of two Canadian R.A.F. officers last Aug. 10. The officers were dragged from a train by a mob and beaten to death.

Two others involved were sentenced to life imprisonment and five others got five-year terms.

The Reuters item did not give the names of the officers, but one was believed to be P.O. Joseph Henry Smith, 22, of Kamloops, B.C.

The despatch said the two officers were travelling from Delhi to Calcutta when a mob at Patna railway station dragged them from their compartment, killed them and threw their bodies into a river.

Thirty-five persons originally went to trial charged with the killings. Three were discharged and 17 acquitted.

New Zealand Is Willing To Grant U.S. Concessions

Washington.—Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the United States, expressed the belief that New Zealand would be willing to grant the United States use of her air and naval bases after the war as part of a mutual defence system.

Stressing that such a system should be on a reciprocal basis, he told reporters that he thought his government would be willing to discuss it with all the countries concerned before the end of the war as an important step toward implementing the Atlantic Charter.

The countries which should be included in the negotiations, Nash said, are New Zealand, Australia, the Netherlands, Great Britain, China, India and the United States.

Might Make It Necessary To Close St. Lawrence To Navigation

Quebec.—The Germans may concentrate as many as 500 or 600 submarines around Halifax and Newfoundland next summer to harass Allied convoys, Rear-Admiral V. G. Brodeur, a member of the naval personnel at the Canadian legation in Washington, said in an interview.

Should such a concentration of U-boats come about, he said, it may be necessary to close the St. Lawrence river to navigation in order to give the Atlantic convoys all the protection possible. He spoke while visiting the Canadian naval exhibition here.

"We have a limited number of escort vessels," he said, "and Canadian overseas are relying on Canada to assure protection of the convoys. Canadians and especially Quebec people should understand that it is up to the Canadian navy to decide where the hardest attack can be carried out against the U-boats and it is also up to the navy to allot the necessary number of escort vessels in this theatre of operations."

U.S. ARMY STORE

May Be Established In Winnipeg

According To Report
Winnipeg.—The Winnipeg Free Press said a United States army headquarters store to supply the needs of army units and civilians working on the Alaska highway may be established in Winnipeg as a result of a proposal now under consideration in Washington.

It added: "Recent fires on the Alaskan highway have made it seem desirable that a warehouse be established in western Canada."

"A small staff would be attached to the warehouse."

"United States authorities are known to have been surveying the possibility of obtaining 50,000 square feet of warehousing on a railway siding here for this purpose."

A DIFFICULT JOB

Finding Enough Workers In France To Meet Nazi Demand

Berne.—Police squads have launched raids upon motion picture theatres in French cities in their latest efforts to conscript French workers for labor in Germany, a despatch from Paris reported.

Pierre Laval's government has found it so difficult to meet a Nazi demand for 250,000 more workmen that it has threatened to refuse food cards to intransigent workers.

The Geneva Journal reported that many French workers were already engaged by the Germans in building fortifications along the Atlantic coast and the Russian plains.

NEW WORLD ORDER

Envisages A Post War Political And Economic Plan

London.—Creation of a "world political association" and international control of the three C's—currency, commodities and commerce—was envisaged in a post-war political and economic plan charted by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison in a speech at the Guild hall.

One of Labor's three representatives in the war cabinet, Morrison told his audience that Britain, the United States, Russia and China after the war must mobilize the free people to create a world political association.

Hitler Promises Reign Of Terror To Win The War

London.—Reasserting his confidence in victory, Hitler promised a "mobilization of the spiritual and material values of Europe" such as never before witnessed for war, but hinted that the struggle might continue for years and that there still are difficulties on the home front.

He asserted that "the gigantic mass of the German people is standing behind the new Reich and the National Socialist world of thought that all is not well within Nazi Germany and occupied Europe, that the Nazi party must 'break terror with ten-fold terror.'"

Hitler addressed a 1,000-word proclamation to a Munich meeting of party followers. It was read for him by a speaker. He was read for him by a speaker. He was read for him by a speaker.

"Neither shall we hesitate a single second to call upon the countries which are responsible for the outbreak of this war to do their bit in the fatal struggle," he said in an apparent reference to fallen France.

"We shall not scruple about foreign lives at a time when such hard sacrifices are exacted from our own lives," he declared, but did not admit that statement.

As to the home front, Hitler declared that "in these coming months and perhaps years the party will have to fulfill its second great historic task, namely, to rouse the nation to the greatness of its danger, to strengthen the sacred faith, to instill strength in weak characters and ruthlessly to destroy saboteurs."

"The party" has to enlighten in places where enlightenment is being rejected. It has to break terror with ten-fold terror.

"It has to extinguish traitors wherever they be and whatever their disguise who follow aims hostile to the people."

guise who follow aims hostile to the people."

The proclamation, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded here, was read in the Munich Hofbrauhaus by secretary of state Herman Esler to members marking the 23rd anniversary of the founding of the Nazi party.

It was the second time within a month that Hitler had addressed his people indirectly.

He told his followers that they had learned fanatical party faith from him and assured them that "the same fanaticism still inspires me today with the same intensity and it will never leave me as long as I live."

"I have a right to believe that destiny has chosen me to fulfill this task. Without it I could not have survived all the obstacles and assaults to the power of Germany and crowned them by victories such as world history has never witnessed, and at the same time borne the sorrows which perhaps would have broken countless less strong characters."

TO FURNISH NEWS

Hope To Provide More Information From Japanese Prison Camps

London.—Relatives of servicemen and civilians taken prisoners when Hong Kong fell Dec. 24, 1942, were invited at a meeting to form a "Hong Kong Fellowship" through which it is hoped to provide more regular news from Japanese prison camps.

The plan has the support of the admiralty, war office, colonial office and Red Cross.

Little has been learned of the fate or condition of Hong Kong prisoners and many are still officially listed as missing. Mrs. Beryl Tidbury, wife of Brig. O. H. Tidbury, who planned the fellowship said she is hopeful that periodic circulation of available news would avert protracted anxieties.

It is not proposed to furnish news of individual prisoners in the printed news letters which will be distributed, but all available official general information will be given.

Membership of the fellowship is expected to be about 5,000.

Approximately 1,500 Canadian soldiers were made prisoners when the Japanese overran Hong Kong.

Jap Labor May Be Engaged At Lumber Camps

Ottawa.—The munitions department announced that an order-in-council has been passed permitting the employment of Japanese and Chinese labor for the duration of the war in the lumber and logging industry on provincial crown lands of British Columbia.

The departmental announcement said the order was passed to assist in offsetting the serious shortage of lumber required for the war program. Japanese labor now is employed in logging operations on freehold lands in non-protected areas of British Columbia and also is employed there and elsewhere in other essential industries.

The order-in-council, it was explained, merely extends to the Japanese the right to engage in such employment on provincial crown lands where they have not been permitted to work. Under the new order, Japanese will not be given work in areas restricted for military reasons.

Timber Controller Allan E. Williamson said it was anticipated that the order-in-council will make available 4,000 additional Japanese loggers on crown limits in the southern interior of British Columbia, an area which normally provides some 200,000,000 feet of lumber per year.

The departmental announcement said that without the employment of additional labor there would have been a shortage of boxes for the 1943 Okanagan valley fruit crop.

Total cost of the removal of Japanese from the protected areas of British Columbia, up to last Dec. 31, was $4,633,354, said a return tabled in the commons for W. K. Esling (Prog. Con., Kootenay West).

Expenditures reported by the labor department, in charge of the movement, totalled $13,164,695.

The mines and resources department spent $1,455,722 on establishment of work camps, payment of wages to Japanese and other expenses; and $21,245 on appraisals of Japanese-owned land.

Poland Insists On Maintaining Former Frontier

London.—When the war is over—according to a Polish government spokesman—the pre-war frontier must be established between Poland and Russia. Russia, as an adherent of the Atlantic charter, is committed to accepting these boundaries. And, adds the spokesman, for the sake of Allied unity, Great Britain and America must aid Poland to clarify the demands and implications of the charter.

The Polish government has drawn up a resolution stating that as far as Poland is concerned the frontier of September, 1939—before the German invasion—is still in force. Russia's later occupation of Poland, says the spokesman, was a hostile act. And, he adds, under the Atlantic charter she has no legal claim to any Polish territory.

The Polish government says it repudiates most definitely what it calls the malicious propaganda which accuses Poland of unfriendliness toward Soviet Russia.

A statement issued recently, says: "It is absolutely absurd to suspect Poland of intention to base the east boundaries of the Polish republic on the Dnieper river and the Black sea, or to impute to Poland any tendencies to move her frontier farther to the east."

The government also denied formally that Poland ever agreed to any co-operation with the Germans against the Soviet Union either before or during this war.

MEET OPPOSITION

Axis Forces Make New Effort To Wipe Out Bosnia

Berne, Switzerland.—Balkan despatches indicated that Axis forces, although supported by both dive-bombers and artillery, are meeting fierce opposition in a new effort to wipe out patriot warriors of Bosnia.

A Budapest despatch quoting a Zagreb report said 5,000 Partisans had been killed and an equal number wounded since the beginning of the latest campaign, which has frequently involved skirmishes in deep snow across rugged country at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

The Axis-influenced despatch said Partisans had fired supply depots, but did not mention Axis casualties. However, losses of Italian troops alone last year, before the Axis decided upon the present big effort to clear out resistance parts of former Yugoslavia, totalled 6,000 dead, and more than 6,000 wounded.

POST-WAR PLANS

Would Create International Police Force After The War

London.—Foreign Secretary Eden said in response to a question in the House of Commons that Britain is anxious to co-operate with the U.S. and other United Nations in the creation of an international police force after the war.

He said "considerable progress" has been made in preparing the ground for discussions with the U.S. on post-war economic and financial problems.

CIVILIANS HONORED

"ABERHART TRAVOIS"
MAKES APPEARANCE

Since the dawn of civilization the human family has consistently tried to improve the means of transporting themselves from one place to another. Evolution of transportation has been slow, and sometimes there have been throwbacks; but over a period of years, men have travelled faster and faster. Sometimes comfort and safety have been sacrificed in the interest of speed and appearance, but as we look back over the ages, there are few lines of endeavor that the human race has made greater progress in during the past one hundred years than in that of travel and transportation.

Looking over the different means of locomotion that are in fairly common use today, we see the streamlined trans-continental trains, trans-ocean air line clippers, palatial steamships, any one of which makes travel a journey of luxury.

On the other side, we have the small boy with his one-foot scooter, the dogsleight and the toboggan.

In between these, forced by necessity, the human mind has developed many means of moving from one place to another with a minimum of effort.

The roaring twenties, followed by the sad thirties, developed the "Bennett Buggy," which will be remembered long after the great statesman, for whom it was named, has passed to his reward.

Yesterday, there was on our streets a new and, therefore strange, conveyance, the object of admiration and envy, which was promptly named the "Aberhart Travois." This new chariot came into existence because the man, for whom it was named, never paid us our monthly dividends of $25 per.

The latest means of travel consists of a two-horse power plant, which, owing to gas rationing, is a straw or hay burner. The plant is placed well out in front and can be had in colors of black, brown, chestnut, gray or buckskin. A leather transmission connects the power with the chassis and body. The chassis is of wood construction with carbon steel braces. Two wheels, placed between the power plant and the seat, are thirty-eight inches high and, owing to the rubber restrictions, have steel tires. Rear wheels have been entirely eliminated and the designer has gone back to the travois. The travois runners are twelve feet, four and one-half inches in length and run through from the front axle, supporting the rear axle, and extend five feet, on and one-half inches in the rear. The runners are finished in a natural poplar green, which adds greatly to the general appearance.

The coupe is a single seater, with springs of hardwood. The upholstery is in a light shade of binder canvas gray, embroidered with dark turkey chocolate with lighter centres, which gives the carriage a striking appearance.

Mr. Jim Ryan, who is the designer and builder of the latest in carriages, informs us that he can get eighteen miles on an armful of hay and two gallons of oats, and that while it is not as fast as the modern car or truck, it will travel through snow and mud, in which the modern car would be absolutely helpless, with the greatest of ease. This latest model of Mr. Ryan's

MY FIRST TRIP ON THE ALCAN HIGHWAY

Barred out from Dawson Creek With five and a quarter ton; When I saw the road so smooth and wide,

Says I, "Why, this is fun." To I settled back as I purred along And lighted up a hill,

But my air and cease now passed away When I reached Peace River Hill. Curve after curve, mile after mile,

Till I thought my brakes would burn; Then across a shaky one-way bridge And up the hair-pin turn.

Then up and on for ten good miles, And there to make the jog; For Ft. St. John with its high-crowned street,

'Twas like driving on a log. Then there's thirty miles of as fine a road

As you'll ever wish to see; And on through bush and curves and hills

Till I struck "Mile Eighty-Three." Up sprung a hill like the side of a barn

And I started with bated breath, As I saw dismembered trucks in a heap

That spoke of a horrible death. I clawed for gears with feverish haste,

But the wheels began to spin, As I slammed on brakes and begun to slide

The picture was surely grim. At last with luck I got her stopped—

I don't know how just yet; how just yet; And I started again with utmost care,

My forehead beaded with sweat, As I reached the top I shivered and shook,

My sweat turned to a chill. If I ever make such another trip

I'll not forget that hill. I rolled along till I reached the drop

At about "One Hundred and Two;" As I eased her down with squealing brakes

It thrilled me through and through. The next was the wide (?) Sikni Hill,

About seven miles all down grade; An orange sign on the last steep lap

This ominous warning gave. "Dangerous Hill. Use Lowest Gear.

Beware of Slides and Ice." The chills chased up and down my spine

Like a pair of frolicking dice. My heart would leap with every slide,

As she struck the icy spots; The exhaust was popping out behind

Like the crack of rifle shots. With an ice-cold motor and red-hot brakes,

I rolled up to a pump. My right leg ached and trembled

Much. My heart went upety-thump. The gears they growled, the motor burked. As I steadily gave her the gun;

Up the heavy drag on the other side, And on towards the sun.

At the top of "One Hundred and Three" Was a scene of joy to behold—

The trees below like flowers. The mountains fringed with gold.

But my gaze of wonder turned to awe As I started down the hill,

For there lay the battered twisted farm Of a tankard cold and still.

Two curves and a hill, two hills and a curve,

Till I struck "One Fifty One." At the sight of its umpteen twists and turns My heart sank with the sun. I'd like to tell you all of it,

But space will not permit; But away this side of Nexstoun,

I was scared I must admit. I'd slipped her into standard low

And started up the rise, When over the top a great white light

Was glaring in my eyes. I blinked my lights, blinked them again, And gave him lots of space; Then I saw 'twas only a playful moon

A-starin' in my face. At the Army Camp just at Zero,

Where we stop for inspection, The nigger boys are mighty nice

In spite of their complexion. "You all got pass, who you all for?"

I showed him the printed slip. "Dufferin' Davie," I sang out—

"Hokay, boy, let her rip." When I told him how this cursed road

Had got me all upset, The nigger grinned and rolled his eyes. "Boy! You ain't seen nothing yet."

I swapped him a man-sized snort of

rye. For a package of cigarettes,

For ninety-eight miles to Dufferin' Was as far as I wished to get.

I slept a while and dumped my load,

Made Dawson Creek that night; Swore I'd never pass St. John again

Without a hell of a fight. So I pestered Tom with my tale of vine, And I thought his heart was melt-in'. Till he smiled and said: "Here's a load of gas For 'Two Hundred and Ten'"—past

TONY'S FIRST POETIC ATTEMPT

The horse and mule live thirty years, And nothing know of wine and beer. The goat and sheep at twenty die,

And never taste of scotch and rye. The cow drinks water by the ton,

And in eighteen years is nearly done. The dog at fifteen cashes in

Without the aid of rum or gin. The cat in milk and water soaks,

And then in twelve short years it creaks.

The modest, sober, bone-dry hen, Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at ten.

But sinful, sinful, rum-soaked men Survive for three score years and ten.

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE
NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned fences, doors, and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities... total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted... in some places the small supply of green wood cut for next winter is being used now to meet the present emergency.

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local citizens.

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full cooperation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end, the following measures will be adopted:

1 A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30, 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date.

2 The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange in his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, to procure supplies, find it necessary to contract for fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies.

3 The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.

4 Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.

5 Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fuel dealers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

$1,000,000 FOR ALBERTA ROADS

Estimates for new road construction in Alberta during 1943 as submitted to the legislature provided for an outlay of approximately $1,000,000 on capital account.

The consideration of the estimates in detail by the house when in committee of supply is expected to reveal to some extent the apportionment of these funds. It appears that the total is similar to that voted in 1942.

From the budget, it appears that about $600,000 will be voted this year for main highways and around $250,000 for new construction of district highways.

The importance of proper maintenance of highways has been advocated by the Alberta Motor Association and officials of that organization are giving close attention to the government's proposals for the present year.

It appears that a considerable outlay will be made on the Peace River highway, as this forms a major link with the southern end of the new U. S. highway to Alaska. Gravel for spring work already is being stockpiled.

Dogs are not allowed in the bunks but may sleep underneath.

Towels changed weekly.

Insect powder for sale at the bar.

Special rates to Gospel Grinders and the gambling perch.

Private entrance for ladies by ladder in the rear.

Baths furnished free, down at the river, but bathers must furnish their own soap and towels.

No kicking regarding the quality or quantity of meals allowed. Those who do not like the provender will get out or be put out.

Only regularly registered guests will be allowed the privilege of sleeping on the barroom floor.

Guests without baggage must sleep in the vacant lot and board elsewhere till their luggage arrives.

Guests are forbidden to strike matches or spit on the ceiling, or to sleep in bed with their boots on.

To attract attention of waiters or bell boys, shout a hole through the door panel. Two shots for ice water, three for a deck of cards and so on.

All guests are requested to rise at 6 a.m. This is important as sheets are needed for tablecloths.

Good Partner Policy

Will Have To Be Followed If Peace Is Permanent

Recently Walter Lippmann addressed the Canadian Club in Montreal on the subject: "The Good Partner Policy." He said: "The future depends on whether we have really understood that we cannot win the victory and make the peace and found an order which will endure without the combination of peoples which have been proved indispensable in the war. . . . The maintenance of the alliance of the United Nations by the practice of the Good Partner Policy is, I believe, our first duty and the foundation of all the hopes of mankind of victory over our enemies and of an ordered world in which man can be free. If we fail to remain the United Nations, we shall fail in all else that we may hope to do."

BIBLE TEACHINGS AGAINST DRUNKENNESS

Golden text: Strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it. Isaiah 28:39.

Lesson: 1 Samuel 30:16, 17; Isaiah 28:1-4; 7; Galatians 5:19-21.

Devotional reading: Psalm 51:7.

Explanations and Comments
Drunkenness in David's Day. 1 Samuel 30:16, 17. The Amalekites had made a sudden raid upon Judah, had burned Ziklag and taken captive all the Israelites' wives and sons and daughters there, together with much spoil. With six hundred men David pursued the retreating troops, and found them "spread abroad over all the ground," celebrating their victory by feasting, drinking and dancing. David utterly defeated them that night, only four hundred young camel riders escaping.

Drunkenness in Isaiah's Day. Isaiah 28:1-7. The time is the early years of Hezekiah's reign in Judah. The prophet Isaiah is speaking to the leaders of Judah in their capital city of Jerusalem, and directing them to turn their thoughts to the drunkards of Ephraim, the leading tribe of the Northern Kingdom, who stand for the whole kingdom. In the first six verses he denounces "the drunkards of Ephraim," and announces the speedy fall of their beautiful city of Samaria.

Drunkenness in Paul's Day. Galatians 5:19-21. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians was written to the churches he founded in Galatia, the great Roman province which extended from north to south across the central plateau of Asia Minor.

Now the works of the flesh are manifest—plainly seen—Paul writes, and proceeds to give a repelling list of fifteen vices which were common among the Galatians. "The horrid enumeration follows a natural order. The list begins with wine against self, then come what were more deadly sins against God; finally there are the sins against society" (A. W. Robinson). "The words fall into four groups: the first group includes three sins in which sensuality in the narrower sense is prominent; the second includes two that are associated with heathen religion; the third group contains eight in which the conflict with others is present; the fourth consists of drunkenness and its natural accompaniments."

More Valentines For Hitler

These Valentine tanks ready for loading at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus shops in Montreal soon will be rolling against the enemy in many far parts of the globe. Conversion of the C.P.R.'s largest shops into an arsenal is an indication of how Canada's peace-time industrial plants have been successfully turned to armament production.

Takes Up War Work

Brantford Man, Crippled All His Life, Is Expert Mechanic

Crippled since he was four years old, Arthur Gamble, 34, is now a first class auto mechanic at Brantford, Ont. War has given him the opportunity to take his place as a repair man with a big transport company.

Gamble says: "It's doing my bit, the best way I know. Our trucks carry plenty of war goods. I'm lending a hand to keep 'em rolling."

Not able to walk since he fell downstairs as a child, he's a cheerful, energetic and powerful young man who handles any job, big or little, like an expert. His employers laud his good work.

Gamble states he can, "any day," do a job as fast and as well as any mechanic.

He leaves his crutches on the running board as he scampers over the hood of a truck, using his powerful arms. On the ground, he works on his knees. "They're as tough as the soles of my feet," he said. Highway jobs in the middle of the night do not phase him. Bad weather means nothing to him. With the temperature below zero, he recently put a new axle in a transport stalled on No. 2 highway.

GARDEN NOTES

Gardening Is Essential

Food is just as important as bullets in this war, and for that reason gardening may almost be classed as an essential this year. Seeds are not going to be plentiful because formerly Canada depended to a large extent on Europe for supplies and these, of course, are cut off. Principal sources now are from those limited sections of Canada where garden seeds are grown and from the United States.

In both areas the weather was very unfavorable last season due to the fact that there was too much rain at harvest time. Canadian seedmen, however, have been able to secure supplies sufficient for normal needs if these are used carefully. There will not be the wide range of varieties usually obtainable, but in standard lines it is expected that there will be enough to go around. Gardeners, however, are advised to order seeds early and to avoid any waste.

In vegetables especially, beginners are urged to follow planting directions carefully, and to sow as thinly as possible. It is also important that the garden soil be well prepared, and at least a portion of the garden planted early. To get maximum results one should spread plantings over several weeks. This will assure more protection against early frost and will also give a large total yield of vegetables.

Those gardeners with very small areas of land at their disposal are also urged to concentrate on those vegetables like beans, carrots, beets, spinach, etc., which give the largest possible yields for the space occupied. Things like corn, potatoes, squash, etc., take up far more room, and where space is limited it is advisable to purchase these from regular sources and grow the smaller things in the home garden only.

The Lawn

Lawn grass must go in early as most growth is made when the weather is still cool and wet.

After digging, the ground should be allowed to settle for a few days at least, and then levelled again. It is advisable to repeat this process several times. The top soil should then be raked fine and on a day without wind the grass sown at a liberal rate, once across and once lengthwise. This double sowing insures an even distribution. For permanent lawns of deep green color and fine texture, high quality seed from a reputable Canadian seed house is vital.

MORE THAN NUISANCE RAIDS

The great U-boat workshops at Kiel, Germany, have been so heavily damaged by R.A.F. bombings that the Germans have found it necessary to turn the Skoda arms works at Pilsen in Czechoslovakia, to the manufacture of submarine parts.

Rumanian Doing His Bit

War Worker Has Ten Sons In Canada's Armed Forces

Meet Adolph Mikulek, Canadian. The 60-year-old Rumanian-born war worker at Sarnia, Ont., has 10 sons in Canada's armed forces and it takes a whole week's wages for boxes to the lads overseas.

And that isn't all. Beaming proudly, Mr. Mikulek disclosed that "if the war goes on much longer there'll be 11 in there doing their bit."

His youngest son is past 17. Five of his sons enlisted at the same time in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps and have been overseas since early in the war. All are sergeants. Two more are in the R.C.A.F., two in the navy and one in the artillery.

Besides all that, Mr. Mikulek is making monthly payments on $450 worth of Victory bonds.

A Clever Dog

Squadron Bulldog Was An Expert At Hitch-Hiking

London.—"Bully," the bulldog mascot of a Canadian torpedo-bomber squadron, was discharged for staying too often and winding up in police stations.

Bully moved from station to station with his squadron, but soon after it arrived at its present base, he developed an acute case of wanderlust. "Bully was a confirmed traveler," the squadron adjutant said. "He was lazy but intelligent, and he knew that if he stood in the middle of the perimeter, a transport truck would stop. Then he would climb aboard and jump out when it reached his destination. He never walked when he could ride."

Nobody minded that, but truck schedules became too uncertain for Bully. He took to waiting for buses, hitchhiking rides and going to a nearby village. There he hitched another bus ride, and finished the night in the police station of another town, waiting for the squadron to bail him out.

Bully was rescued from the law once too often, and the following notes in the squadron's log book:

"The squadron bulldog, which has accompanied this unit on all its official moves throughout England and Scotland, has been posted to elvy street due to his recent misbehavior in breaking out of camp."

Using Magic Eye

Device Helps Royal Navy And R.A.F. To Spot Submarines

The war against the U-boat is being intensified with new devices used by the R.A.F. and the Royal Navy, which spot submarines on the surface no matter how thick the fog or how dark the night, it has been made known.

The air force uses a radio "magic eye" for its tracing of undersea-craft. The navy employs radio locators.

An authoritative source said the R.A.F. also has been using a new type of delayed-action bomb which explodes if any attempt is made to move it before the time set for its explosion.

Whole factory areas must be abandoned if workers using these bombs are dropped since they can not be removed before they explode, it was said.

There's Only One Master-Key to the Major Market!

69%

It's the Weekly Newspapers in the towns and villages of Canada — the only publications whose complete contents are absorbed with instinctive, intimate, friendly confidence and understanding by the people who make 69% of the nation's retail purchases.

It is that which the Weekly Newspapers and their millions of earnest readers have in common — their purely local interests, their essentially personal relationships and in many respects their actual interdependence in the "home town" scheme of things—that makes the Weeklies such an influence for sales right on "Main Street" where the 69% of the country's retail sales are made.

The Weekly Newspapers bring the advertiser, the dealer and the consumer more closely, more effectively together in the smaller communities, and do it more economically, than any other sales-building medium.

When planning your 1943 advertising budget, be sure to have all the facts about the dominant position of the Weekly Newspapers in Canada's 69% major market. Write now, for precise information.

We offer the following solution free of charge, to alleviate our manpower shortage and the housing situation in Winnipeg. With the current talk of redistribution of representation to parliament, let us make the redistribution of the local legislature eliminate about forty of the seats. This would give us, we trust, some good men for steady agricultural and industrial work; and with this drastic decrease, the legislative building would seem a little larger, and all will agree that it would make a wonderful apartment block.—Russell Banner.

Liquor supplies have been so low in the Yukon territory that a man is very fortunate if he can secure one bottle a day, any size. He is allowed one bottle a day of hard liquor, but is restricted to 800 ounces a month. Persons living a distance from a liquor store may buy only one gallon at a time. Gee! That's tough!

Rationing of liquor, now enforced with varying degrees of stringency in all provinces, is apparently annoying everyone except the bootleggers. Both excessive and moderate drinkers object to the increased cost and inconvenience of obtaining supplies. The prohibitionists complain that supplies are still available. The bootleggers smile, foreseeing a growing demand for their services that may bring them again to the prosperity that they enjoyed when Canada was officially dry.—The Printed Word.

TO SPITE THE FACE

How strange it is that in this year of 1943, a group of Canadian workers in Ontario should decide to threaten the powers that be by announcing that if they cannot get as much beer as they require, when they require it, they will retaliate by refusing to buy Victory Bonds and by selling those which they have already bought. How everybody would laugh at a man who announced that because the city would not run a water main to his house, he was not going to save any more money, and in addition, he was going to cancel his fire and life insurance policies. Yet there is little to choose between the attitude of this little group of workers and the man who wanted a water main.

The attitude of these angry beer seekers appears to be developed by a feeling that when people buy Victory Bonds they are doing the country a favor. What they fail to grasp is this. Sure, the Canadian man who put themselves up as targets for enemy bullets need all the fighting equipment we can supply through the purchase of bonds, but they do not get that equipment as a favor. When we buy bonds, we favor only ourselves. We put out savings where they are fully protected from loss, and we get three per cent interest, which is good profit in these days of reduced interest rates. These Ontario men might have just as well said: "If you won't let us buy the beer we want, we will punish ourselves further by ceasing to be concerned about our own future, and by losing the money we have been making on the bonds we have already bought."

Burns Farmer: "Let me tell you, my friend, that booze knows as much as I do."
